TRIED TO BREAK UP A PARKER MEETING

Democrats by Sheer Force of Number Shouted Down Their Adversaries

GREAT WELCOME TO THE JUDGE

Discussed Issues of the Campaign, the Audience Being Most Euthusiastic.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 1 .- Eventually ineffective but temporarily successful, was the attempt made tonight to rout a monster Democratic meeting at the Essex Troop armory, where Judge Parker was the principal speaker. The great building, with a capacity said to be more than two-thirds that of Madison Square garden in New York, was filled. At the first mention of the present administration and the name of President Roosevelt hundreds broke forth with terrific cheering, and for several minutes it appeared as though the Democrats were in the minority The scene that followed was one of unimaginable confusion. Hisses and cheers were mingled. Words in anger and threats were heard, and the police were powerless to control. Finally the Democrats by sheer force of numbers and their greater volume of sound drowned out their adversaries.

The disturbance occurred before Judge Parker reached the hall.

Judge Parker's invasion of New Jer-

Judge Parker's invasion of New Jersey to make in the present campaign the first speech he has delivered outside of his native state was met with a resounding welcome. This started when the candidate boarded a ferry of the Lackawanna radiroad at Christopher street. New York, and was continued at the Hoboken station, on a crowded train to Newark and en route to the home of former Senator James Smith, Jr., where the members of his party were guests at dinner. At the Broad street station in Newark several thous and people gathered, and despite exten sive police protection passage up Broad street was forced with great difficulty Led by a squad of police and a military band the party in two carriages wa-driven to Mr. Smith's home. A bis crowd was gathered there, and lines the party to reach the house. As Judge Parker mounted the steps there was a tremendous cheering. He several times lifted his hat and shook hands with women who rushed to the steps. After dinner a reception was held at Mr. Smith's home, where many people met

Judge Parker and Mr. Smith started for the armory at 8:30. The street and park in front of Mr. Smith's house was crowded with people who cheered the candidate as the party drove away and an elaborate display of fireworks was made all along the route to the

The procession of the Parker party, including the escorts of marching clubs, bands, committees of citizens in carriages, and those in charge of the arrangements for the candidate's reception, enjoyed an unimpeded passage to the armory, but there they found the capacity of the building overtaxed. After several attempts to gain an entrance by the main door, a gateway was found beneath the stage

Upon the appearance of Judge Parper on the platform at 9:03 o'clock the demonstration was phenomenal. The applause came from every part of the armory and the volume of sound was deafening. Flags were waved, chairs were hammered with hands and feet, some persons whistled, others shouted, and all contributed their full share to ne enthusiasm. After exactly 20 minutes Judge Parper took a hand in quelling the en-thusiasm. One minute later he ad-dressed the chairman. In an instant the armory was converted from tumult to absolute silence. Throughout his speech the candidate was well treated, being cheered heartily when he scored a point and listened to attentively at all times. There were no more demonstrations from his political opponents that were worthy of notice, Judge Parker's voice was rather stronger than usual. It penetrated the furthermost sections of the armory.

Judge Parker described the method y which the United States was peopled, beginning with a narrow fringe along the Atlantic coast, and spread-ing steadily across the continent speaking the same language and popessing It is this expansion," said Judge

Parker, "natural, inevitable, almost as ellent as the tides of the ocean, which has made the country what it is and in the society that has come of this varied effort the words 'empire' and 'subject' have become meaningless and

"Turning for a moment from this pieture to that which sets before us the process of expansion even in the great countries of Europe and we find an en-tirely different ideal. There it has been accomplished by the cruelty of the con-queror, the ambition of the soldier and the rapacity of the tax collector.

"It has gone on not over virgin tands, but among crowded populations. It has put millions of people under the elbow of the conqueror and has incul-cated among those at home the idea that these masses have been brought into the world to serve a dis-tant master whom they would never see or to provide business or pleasure or profit for a conquering race or profit for a conquering race.

It has promoted the growth of navies, useless and unnecessary for their purpose of protecting commerce, and armies which quarter on the conquered lands have been paid by revenues drawn from scanty or decaying industries. Even in these days of arbitration and peace conferences the rage for conquest, national rivalries and the fear that one might obtain an advantage over another have made conscription almost universal over the whole conti-nent of Europe. They have divided un-known continents into protectorates or spheres of influence which thus far have been almost useless to the hold-ers and harmful to the natives.

"It is that kind of expansion upon which we are invited to look with favor, We are asked to turn from our own mighty but peaceful triumphs, from the homogeneous people attached to liber-ty, fitted to govern themselves, in order that we may enter upon the beginning of a policy which must inevitably end in the adoption of the other methods which I have so briefly and so imperfeetly outlined.

"When we are asked, then, to turn away from the assured triumphs which a popular system-familiar as household words—has brought to us, and to adopt methods which, opposed to all our traditions, have not even the merit of success, or of bringing self-govern-ment, happiness and contentment to a single people thus far subjected to them, we may well enter our protest against such a policy. We feel and know that the chart of our liberty by which our people have guarded their course for more than a century and a quarter has not been lost. If, under a government of constitutional restraints and regard for law, we have been able, through peace and war, foreign and intestine, to grow from a population of 3,000,000 to one of 80,000,000, why may we not go on until we have doubled that number? Why should we now consent to take even the first step which, according to its advocates, is Taking up the trust question, Judge Parker said:

'It is conceded that during the last three or four years the increase in the cost of living has amounted to onesixth. Secy. Shaw rejoices in it and says the wages of the workingman and the income of our people are greater in proportion. Now, if that is true, the householders of this country know it. If not, their wives do. They know whether the bread winner's income is greater by a sixth than it was four years ago. There are instances in which it is. But in the great majority of cases you will find it is not true. You vill discover that it requires just a little more work on your part and more care on the part of your wives to make both ends meet from month to month. Now, why is it that the prices of the things we have to have are pushed up a little from time to time, whether there be improvement in our incomes or not? Is it not in part be-cause the business of this country today is largely in control of combina-tions or trusts which are enabled to shut out competition and thus control prices arbitrarily?

"When an individual violates the law the law punishes him. When a corporation violates the law the law should punish it. A corporation is no more entitled to immunity from the conse-quences of its wrongful acts than an individual. A combination of individuals to control the market price of products of any kind is yold. A combination of corporations for a similar pur-pose is alike void. We would not hesitate for a moment to prosecute the inpurpose of oppressing the people. Why should there be any hesitation in enforcing the law against great corpora-tions for illegal business? Are the artificial creations of the government exthat sacred principle of equal and exact justice to all men? It ought not to be so. And it will not long be so if we as a people act wisely in both state and national contests.

"Overwhelming in importance tower Shall the partnershstp the questions: 'Shall the partnershsip between the Republican leaders and and hurt to the country? Shall the trust contributions of millions to the campaign fund secure the right to con-tinue wrongful taking of millions a year from the people?"

Another evation was given the can-didate when he concluded. It continued several minutes—in fact, until Judge Parker left the meeting to take special trolley car to Jersey City where he made speeches before return-ng to New York tonight. The demonstration outside the armory as the par-ty was escorted to the special car was even greater than that which greeted his entrance to the armory. It is esimated by Democratic leaders that as nany people were unable to get into the armory as the number in the audi-

AT JERSEY CITY. New York, Nov. 1 .- An audience that filled Elks hall, Jersey City, to over-flowing, remained until 10:59 to greet and listen to Judge Parker tonight. When he appeared they gave him a vociferous greeting lasting several min-utes. As soon as he entered the hall he at once went to the front of the stage, shook hands with the chairman of the meeting and then faced the audlence which had mounted the chairs, cheering wildly and waving flags. Judge Parker bowed several times. He took his manuscript from his pocket and stood ready to begin, but as the cheering died away it would be re-newed again. Judge Parker was in-tensely earnest and even dramatic at times in his delivery and manner. He was frequently interrupted by applause and received another ovation when he concluded. He said in part: "Because we are opposed to the pur-chase of the electorate and have felt it our duty to say so, those who would corrupt it to the end that their power to plunder the people may continue, cry out in these closing hours of the campaign that the business interests campaign that the business interests would not be safe with a Democratic administration. As I have had occasion to say before and I deem it my duty to say again the trusts are furnishing the money with which they hope to control the election.

answer these questions, but they have not been answered and they will not be. "It is for the people now to say whether the trusts of this country shall be permitted to control its national elec-tions in order that their privilege to pay tribute may be continued."

The candidate left the hall after cocluding and went to St. Peter's hall, here he received another evation and vered the same speech Judge Parker left Jersey City for New York at 11:50.

There were large crowds in the streets of Jersey City, and they cheered him enthusiastically.

Expenditures Exceeds Receipts. Washington, Nov. 1.—The monthly omparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of October, 1904, the total receipts were $48,990,608, an increase as compared with October, 1903, The expeditures for last month were $52,943,122, an increase as compared with October, 1903, of $1,932,644. ENTHUSIASTICALLY WELCOMED.

Makes a Stirring Address to Students Of a Military Academy -- Answers His Opponents.

La. Porte, Ind., Nov. 1 .- Nearly 20 speeches were made today by Senator Fairbanks. With one exception, that of Sturgls, Mich., the senator's addresses were delivered to the citizens | maker, in a hansom cab in West Broadof his own state. At all points he was enthusiastically welcomed, and his Hazelton, a prominent business man speeches were repeatedly punctuated of Oneonta, Oswego county, N. Y., towith applause. During the day he day appeared at Dist. Atty. At several points he referred to portions of Judge Parker's speech in New York last pight, with special reference to the opening of foreign markets to American manufacturing products. During most of the day the senator was accompanied by J. Frank Hanley, the Republican candidate for governor of Indiana. At Lima, Ind., the students of Howe Military academy were present to greet the vice presidential candidate. To them he said;

"Some of our political opponents have much to say about militarism and the spirit of militarism. There is no spirit of militarism which is a menace to our country. The soldiers of the republic have always been its friends and not its enemies. The young men studying military tactics here are learning the lessons of patriotism and learning to be good citizens. They are not laying foundations which will be a menace to our national welfare, but to give strength to our institutions. Here on the one hand are the cadets and on the other the school children bearing the flag of the republic. You young men are learning how better to protect it against its enemies the world about. There are no enemies of the American flag at home. The 80,000,000 of citizens —I care not to which party they belong —whether they are Republicans or Democrats—are all friends of the American flag. The little army of the Little ican flag. The little army of the United States is necessary. It will con-tinue to be the protector and guardian of our national interests. The strength of the republic, however, is not in the army, splendid as it is, nor is it in the great battleships which have brought us such renown; the strength of the reoublic abides in the patriotic hearts of ur countrymen.

The largest crowds of the day were at Goshen, Eikhart and South Bend. The last speech of the evening was at Hammond and the senator's special train was side-tracked at Michigan City

When released from its weights the airship rose gradually to a height of a northeasterly direction with the archine under complete control, Knabeashue piloted the machine for at least 00 feet and returned, circling about

To show the salling qualities of his craft Knabenshue, then at a height of 1,000 feet, steered directly into the teeth of the wind and proceeded for about half a mile, returning to starting place soon after, as his orders ere to stay only 20 minutes.

Instead of landing at once, as was exected he would, Knabenshue kept on naneuvering, crossing the course in very direction, then shooting off to ie west. Finally, after being up near-40 minutes, he returned and brought e machine to the ground. As during esterday's flight, the absolute dirigi-ility of the "California Arrow" was demonstrated beyond a doubt. The crowd of several thousand persons as-sembled voiced their satisfaction with the performance by prolonged cheering and gave Knabenshue another rousing reception as the airship dropped down gracefully among them.

A BOY AND A GUN.

Little Fellow Shoots an Eight-Year-Old Girl.

Hamilton, Mont., Nov. 1.—While playing with a small caliber rifle 'oday John Tyler, a 6-year-old boy, shot and fatally wounded the 8-year-old daughter of John Marvel. Both families are prominent in this city. The rifle was given the boy as a present some time ago, but his parents did not knew he had any bullets, and where he secured them is a mystery. It is said the lad had been to a moving picture show a few nights before at which a train robbery was depicted, and the children were imitating this scene when the shooting occurred. The bullet struck the little girl's neck, severing the jugular voin. The physicians have no hope of her receyery.

IS NAN PATTERSON FALSELY ACCUSED?

Milton W. Hazleton Says that He Saw Caesar Young Shoot Himself.

WHY HE COMES FORWARD NOW.

His Conscience Smote Him-Tells the Story of His Arrival in New York And of Meeting a Stranger.

Nan Patterson, the actress now in the Tembs prison charged with having killed Caesar Young, the wealthy bookway, this city, on June 4 last, Milton W. office and declared in an affidavit that he saw Young fire the fatal shot.

Hazelton said that another man was with him at the time of the shooting, He does not know the identity of this witness, however, as he was a chance acquaintance, attracted by a Masonic embiem on his watch chain. He declared that his conscience has been troubling him so that he finally had to ome forward and tell the story.

Hazelton told the assistant district itorney that he is 78 years old and tees in Oneonta. For a few weeks prejous to the affair of June 4, Hazelton says he was staying with the family of Rev. D. W. Crouch, whose wife is his ousin, at their home in Brooklyn. He says that he came to this city to see Joseph H. Hoadley, president of the International Air Power company, with whose father he had been associated years before in California; that on the nember the date, he came from Brook-n looking for a boiler shop, which he Up the street," continued Hazelton,

'I met a man from the west who was attracted by the Masonic emblem on my watch chain. He spoke to me and we walked along together. At first I thought that he was a bunco steerer, and was suspicious of him because I thought that he wanted to get to me. But he showed me that he was a Mason n good standing and we went along up the street together. "I saw a hansom cab coming toward me. In this were a man and a woman sitting partly facing each other. When I first saw them they were about 100 feet away. Their four hands were raised. From their excited faces and positions I saw that they were in a commotion of some kind. My com-panion saw them at the same time and said to me: 'Look there.

'Just then I saw the young woman draw her hands toward her lap and a minute afterward I saw the revolver in his hand and saw and heard it go oft. saw him fall forward into the lap the woman. The hansom did not stop, but drove by us, it being near to us Hazelton says that as he and the man e was with did not wish to be detained as witnesses they agreed to say noth-ing about what they had seen. After making his statement Hazelton was taken under escort to Bleecker street and West Broadway, where the shooting occurred, but was unable to identify the locality. Hazelton further said that when the stranger he was with introduced himself he gave his name but not his card, and that he had forgotten the name.

After reading of Nan Patterson's ar-rest he said, he came here and tried to visit her in the Tombs, but was unsuc-cessful. He then determined to tell his story in court when Miss Patterson was placed on trial. Before leaving the district attorney's office Hazelton was subseenaed to appear there again next Fri

"JACK'S LITTLE SURPRISE."

The title of "Jack's Little Surprise, recently at the Princess theater, New York, and which is now touring, suggests a curd and whey comedy for children to perform at Sunday school entertainments, but it is a pell mell farce in which a superfluous woman causes a tumult of trouble among three couples of husbands and wives. One more of those wicked plays of connubial infelicity from Paris? No. Although it starts in Cairo, with a harem houri at the fore, the tourists whom her presence afflicts are Americans on their way back to New York, and nothing vicious is done by her or any one else. The husbands hide her again and again, the wives as often discover her, and there is an incessant huilabaloo of the men's fright and the women's jealousy. The Egyptian goes through the play in harem garb of veiled head and ankles and an intermediate tunic, accompanied always by couchee-couchee music, and seeks a refuge from a pursuing Turk on every male breast she can throw herself upon. But she is innocent of evil design, and the only desire of the faithful husbands is to get rid of her. The mistakenly suspicious wives commit no improprieties of thought or act in their vengeful
